Continuing education, recertifications and involvement in professional organizations provides us with a world view of anesthesia.

STAFF

The staff of PASEP has been working together for the past 25 years. In that time, we have accrued a wealth of expertise ranging from office-based anesthesia to all specialties in the intra-operative theater. Our reputation is established as excellent anesthesia care providers as well as educators and consultants.

TYPES OF ANESTHESIA PROVIDED

Monitored Anesthesia Care (MAC):

IV sedation provided by one of our qualified anesthesia providers during a procedure. Patients are monitored continuously to provide patients a safe and comfortable operative experience.

General Anesthesia:

Medications are administered to render the patient completely unconscious and pain free during a procedure. Airway management is an important part of this type of anesthesia. Additional medications are provided after the procedure to keep the patients comfortable.

Regional Anesthesia:

This type of anesthesia involves an injection of local anesthetic to decrease pain in a region of the body. MAC and general anesthesia are frequently used in conjunction with this technique.
